

Participation drops, inequities remain.

For the first time in more than a decade, the number of kids in afterschool programs decreased.

